Hi!

If you are one of the millions of children who love LEGO products and want to know all about them and about the company that makes them - you have come to the right place.

On this site we will gather all the fun and information that we think you may be looking for.

In the LEGO Group, we always focus on the child and his or her needs and interests. You are simply our V.I.P. - our most important person. Therefore, we have made this site primarily for you.

However, we also welcome parents, relatives, LEGO enthusiasts and everybody else who want to know something about the LEGO Group and our products - you, too, may find bits and
